

Cambium Learning Group Education Solutions Recognized as Finalists for the 46th Annual Association of Educational Publishers Awards

DALLAS, TX – May 15, 2013 – Cambium Learning® Group (NASDAQ: ABCD), a leading educational solutions and services company committed to helping all students reach their full potential by providing evidence-based solutions and expert professional services, announced today that five of its innovative learning solutions have been selected as finalists for the 2013 Association of Educational Publishers (AEP) Awards. Four were named as finalists in the Supplemental Resources category, and one for the Beacon Award for marketing.

Considered one of the most prestigious and comprehensive recognition programs in the learning resource community, the AEP Awards have been honoring excellence and innovation in educational publishing for more than four decades. Each year, the program receives hundreds of entries, including print materials, digital learning tools, professional development curricula, and a wide range of periodicals—but only the top quarter reaches the finalist stage.

“The quality of submissions is always astounding and only grows better each year,” said Linda Swank, AEP awards associate. “Competition this year was at an all-time high, and I know that our judges had hard decisions to make throughout each round.” The following Cambium Learning Group solutions received 2013 BESSIE awards:

Finalists representing the Learning A–Z and ExploreLearning business units under the Cambium Learning Group umbrella include:
