

An illustration of a child's bedroom at night. Two children are in a wooden bunk bed. The child on top is looking up at a large yellow paper lantern hanging from the ceiling. The child on the bottom is looking up at the same lantern. The room has blue walls with a star and moon decoration on the left and a window on the right showing a night sky with a yellow lightning bolt and rain. A string of yellow lights hangs near the window. The title 'Click! Lights Off' is written in large, white, bold letters with black outlines across the top of the illustration.

Kent and Hank like to jump.
The sky is a soft pink.
Light from the sun is dim.
Dad called, "It is time to come in."

Hank said, "What did I just bump? Flip on the lamp, Kent."
Click!

"It was the bunk!" said Hank.
Hank got in his bunk, and Kent went to the top bunk.

“Is that the wind?” said Kent.
Just then, a flash of light and a big clap made them jump!
Click! The lamp went off.
“Help, it is too dim!”
called Hank.

“I have a light,” said Kent.

Click!

“Thank you, that will help,”
said Hank. “Can you tilt it at the bed?”

“Come up to the top bunk,”
said Kent.

Hank went up top.

“Hold this with that hand. Light can come from it,” said Kent.

“Hank, shine the light on the wall.”
Kent said, “Look! I made a crab with a hand.”

Hank said, "Make Crab run and skip on the sand!"
Kent made Crab run and skip.
This made Hank smile.

Kent made a croc with his left hand.

Croc crept up to Crab.

Hank called, "Stop, Croc! Do not hunt Crab! It is not wise!"

“I think Croc will get Crab!”

Hank said, with a gasp.

“I do not want to look!”

“Look!” said Kent. “In fact,
Croc will drop Crab.”
Zonk! Bonk! Crab hit
Croc and ran.

Then the lamp came back on.
Hank said, "Flip off the big light!
I do not want it to end. I want to make Croc and Crab!"
