

Cambium Learning Group Wins 2 REVERE Awards

DALLAS, TX – June 11, 2014 / PRNewswire – Cambium Learning® Group (NASDAQ: ABCD), the educational solutions and services company that leverages engaging, innovative technology to help all students reach their full potential, announced today that two of its businesses — ExploreLearning® and Learning A-Z — received 2014 REVERE Awards, presented by the PreK–12 Learning Group of the Association of American Publishers (AAP) in the Supplemental Resources category.

The annual awards, established by the Association of Educational Publishers (AEP) and formerly known as the AEP Awards program, recognize exemplary learning resources for preK–12 students, educators, and administrators, as well as adult learners. Of the hundreds of print materials, digital learning tools, professional development curricula, and periodical entries submitted, fewer than 60 received an award.

Entries went through three rounds of extensive review by teachers and leading industry experts, and were evaluated according to three key principles: quality content, age appropriateness, and innovation.

The Cambium Learning Group 2014 REVERE Award winners are:

ExploreLearning®
Mathematics: Gizmos®

Learning A-Z
Resources for Learners with Special Educational Needs: Raz-Kids

“We are thrilled that two of our outstanding educational resources have been recognized as 2014 REVERE Award winners,” said John Campbell, chief executive officer of Cambium Learning Group. “These awards reaffirm our commitment to delivering innovative educational solutions that help all students reach their potential.”

The 2014 REVERE Award winners were announced on June 4, 2014, during the Awards Gala in Washington, D.C. View all the REVERE Award winners. For more information about Cambium Learning Group’s commitment to helping students achieve academic success, please visit www.cambiumlearning.com.
