The screenshot shows the Raz-Plus website interface. At the top, there's a header with the Raz-Plus logo, a cartoon character, and a button for 'Access Trial Adventure'. Below this, it says 'Books Read: 10,522,771,952 | Readers Online: 29,142'. On the right, there are links for 'My Zone', 'Reports', and 'About Raz-Plus'. A purple navigation bar contains 'RESOURCES' with a dropdown arrow, a search bar with 'Search Resources' and a magnifying glass icon, 'FILE CABINET', 'MANAGE STUDENTS' with a dropdown arrow, and an information icon. Below the navigation bar, a breadcrumb trail shows 'Home > Literacy Curriculum Map'. The main heading is 'Literacy Curriculum Map' with a yellow square icon. Below the heading, a paragraph states: 'This standards-aligned map is organized into eight sequential content units for each grade.' Two blue arrows point to the links 'More About Literacy Curriculum Map' and 'Tips for Getting Started'. Below this, there's a horizontal menu with tabs for 'Grade K', 'Grade 1', 'Grade 2' (which is highlighted with a pink underline), 'Grade 3', 'Grade 4', and 'Grade 5'. Under the 'Grade 2' tab, there are two units listed: 'Unit 1: Civics, Government, Citizenship' with the question 'What is the role of government in people's lives?' and 'Unit 2: Elements of a Story' with the question 'How do characters respond to events and challenges?'.
