DALLAS—May 13, 2021—Today, education essentials company Cambium Learning® Group announced that products from ExploreLearning®, Lexia® Learning, and Learning A-Z®, were recognized as finalists in six categories in the 2021 SIIA CODiE Awards.

For the past 36 years, the SIIA CODiE Awards have recognized thousands of Education and Business technology companies, products and services as leaders in innovation and excellence. The peer-recognized program has continued to evolve with the technology it honors, to ensure the most leading-edge products win for the most innovative business technology of the time. This year, Cambium Learning Group companies and solutions were recognized in the following categories:

- Best Advanced Mathematics Instructional Solution: Gizmos®–ExploreLearning®
- Best Advanced Science Instructional Solution: Gizmos®–ExploreLearning®
- Best Foundational Science Instructional Solution: Science4Us®–ExploreLearning®, Science A-Z–Learning A-Z®

“This past year has put serious pressure on educators across the globe as they worked to adjust to remote learning. It was critical for us to ensure teachers felt supported with the right solutions in order to make the transition to hybrid and remote learning as seamless as possible,” said John Campbell, CEO of Cambium Learning Group. “To have five products be recognized across six categories is an honor, as well as a testament to the impact our products can have on the lives of both students and teachers.”

To determine finalists, all nominated products received a detailed review by two expert judges. Each product is judged against category-specific criteria and top-rated products from the first round of review were elevated to finalists. SIIA members and community leaders will now evaluate finalists in order to determine the winners, who will be announced in June.
